PARTICIPATING COLLEGES

The Third Session Bench Fellowship Camp, themed "Enabling Ourselves to be Emotionally and Socially Intelligent," was successfully conducted from February 14-16, 2025, at the serene KPMC Trust Nallathanny Muringapuzha. The session was expertly facilitated by Lovewin K Charin, who guided 14 students from three prestigious institutions in exploring the intricacies of emotional and social intelligence.

DAY 1: Emotional and social Intelligence

Introduction

The first day of the Third Session Camp commenced in the evening, with 10 students arriving on the premises. At 7:30 pm, the camp's inaugural program began, and Mr. Jibin P B warmly welcomed the participants, introducing them to the camp's objectives and itinerary.

- Silence and meditation, surrounded by nature.
- This tranquil experience proved to be a wonderful way to unwind and connect with the environment.
- Interactive activities around 9:30 pm, designed to enhance their observation skills, teamwork, and collaboration
- Think creatively, build trust, and foster a sense of camaraderie.

OBJECTIVES

Under Mr. Jibin's expert guidance, The first day of the camp had set a positive tone for the rest of the program, and everyone looked forward to the exciting experiences that lay ahead.

As the night drew to a close, the fellows retired to their quarters around 11:00 pm, feeling refreshed and invigorated after a day of travel and a evening of engaging activities.

DAY 2: Emotional and social Intelligence Contd..

Following the previous evening's activities, the next day's session began around 9:30 am, led by Mr. Lovewin K Charian, who delved into the camp's theme: "Enabling Ourselves to be Emotionally and Socially Intelligent." The session, which lasted until 4:00 pm, explored the importance of emotional and social intelligence in both personal and professional life.

During the session, Lovewin emphasized the significance of being a change-maker and highlighted the essential skills that individuals should develop to thrive in the 21st century. He discussed the importance of Intelligence Quotient (IQ), Emotional Quotient (EQ), Social Quotient (SQ), and Adversity Quotient (AQ), and how these skills can be cultivated to achieve success and make a positive impact in the world.

HIGHLIGHTS

In the evening, the fellows embarked on a visit to Panchalimedu, a unique opportunity for experiential learning that allowed them to apply the concepts learned during the session to real-life situations. The outing provided a chance for the fellows to bond with each other and with nature, fostering a sense of community and teamwork.

DAY 3: Transformation through Bench !

What's in the Pipeline?

The final day of our program commenced with a serene morning walk and meditation session at the top a mountain. This tranquil experience allowed us to connect with nature and ourselves, fostering a sense of inner peace. We collectively acknowledged the calming effects of nature, which helped to soothe our minds and alleviate stress.

Jibin Facilitated sessions with power packed activities that help students to self reflect and connected.

Discussion on what to expect in the rest of the fellowship and explaining them.

Ideas for Community Projects , Social entrepreneurship , theatre and Tribal community support projects are presented and is in the planning Phase.

HIGHLIGHTS

CONCLUSION

As we concluded our activities around 1:00 pm, we brought our camp to a close, carrying with us memories of meaningful experiences, newfound connections, and valuable lessons.

Feedback from the fellows was overwhelmingly positive, with appreciation for the food, accommodations, and resource personnel who contributed to the camp's success.
